General Principles of Bail and Pretrial Release.

1. The purpose of this bail schedule is to fix an amount upon which a person who is arrested without a warrant may be released from custody prior to appearance in court. Penal Code Section 1269b requires the Superior Court Judges of every county to prepare, adopt and annually revise a uniform schedule of bail for all felony and misdemeanor offenses. Section 1269b instructs the judges to consider the seriousness of the offense in adopting the bail schedule. An individual arrested and booked into Santa Rita Jail may be released prior to their initial court appearance in one of two ways: the deputies at the jail may release certain eligible individuals on their promise to appear in court on a future court date or a judicial officer may release an individual on their own recognizance pursuant to the court's pre-trial release program with an order to appear at a scheduled court date. Penal Code Section 1270.1 requires a hearing in open court before anyone arrested for certain offenses can be released on (a) his or her own recognizance, or (b) on bail in an amount that varies from the established county bail schedule. [Offenses subject to Penal Code section 1270.1 are marked in this schedule with a single asterisk (*).] Individuals arrested for the following charges are ineligible for pre-court appearance release:

- A "serious felony" as defined in Penal Code section 1192.7(c).
- A "violent felony" as defined in Penal Code section 667.5(c), except for a residential burglary under Penal Code section 460(a).
- Penal Code section 136.1(c) (preventing or dissuading testimony), if a felony.
- Penal Code section 243(e)(1) (intimate partner battery)
- Penal Code section 262 (spousal rape), if a misdemeanor or felony.
- Penal Code section 273.5 (spousal battery) if a misdemeanor or felony.
- Penal Code section 273.6 (violation of a domestic violence protective order).
- Penal Code section 422 (terrorist threats), if a felony.
- Penal Code section 646.9 (stalking) if a misdemeanor or felony.

2. The California Supreme Court has held that where pretrial detention is not warranted under Article 1, section 12 of the California Constitution, and a court finds it necessary to condition pretrial release on posting monetary bail, a court must set bail in a reasonable amount based on an individualized assessment of the totality of circumstances. These circumstances include the protection of the public as well as the victim, the seriousness of the charged offense, the arrestee's previous criminal record and history of compliance with court orders, the likelihood that the arrestee will appear at future hearings, and a defendant's financial situation and resources available to satisfy a monetary bail order. Judges have the discretion in all cases to require money bail on misdemeanor or felony charges in the interest of public safety or to secure defendant's future appearance.

3. After a defendant's first appearance in court, the amount of bail or whether to release someone on their own recognizance will lie within the sound discretion of the court. If the court does set bail it may be greater or less than the amount set forth in this bail schedule subject to the provisions of Penal Code Section 1275. In setting bail, the judge is required under Section 1275 to consider the protection of the public, the seriousness of the offense charged, the previous criminal history of the defendant and the probability of his or her appearing at a future court hearing. Public safety is the primary consideration in setting bail.

4. Penal Code section 646.93 requires the County Sheriff shall designate a telephone number that shall be available to the public to inquire about bail status or to determine if the person arrested has been released and if not yet released, the scheduled release date, if known.. It also requires the District Attorney to make reasonable efforts to notify the victims about the prerelease hearing required by Penal Code section 1270.1 (see paragraph 1, above), and allows the victims to address the court at the hearing on the issue of bail. [Offenses subject to Penal Code section 646.93 are marked in this schedule with a double asterisk ().]

5. Where a judicial officer sets bail, and multiple offenses are charged, bail shall not be "stacked" if the provisions of 654(a) would prohibit multiple punishments for those offenses.

6. Defendants charged with felonies punishable by a prison term of 4 years or less will normally be eligible for release on their own recognizance. For felony offenses where the judicial officer is requiring money bail, where the offense is not listed in the bail schedule, the scheduled bail would be calculated by multiplying $5,000 by the midterm for that offense.

7. If a defendant is out of custody, either on their own recognizance or bail, and they commit a new misdemeanor within 90 days, that would not require cash bail, the bail schedule will be $2,500 except as provided under Penal Code section 853.6.

8. Bail for violation of unscheduled misdemeanors: A) $10,000 for "wobbler" offenses; B) $5,000 for one year offenses and 3) $2,500 for offenses with a six month jail maximum sentence.

9. Bail shall be set at zero ($0) for any individual arrested in connection with a proceeding in another state regarding an individual performing, supporting, or aiding in the performance of a legal abortion in California, or an individual obtaining a legal abortion in California.

10. For probation violations, at or after the initial hearing and prior to a formal violation hearing, under Penal Code section 1203.25, bail shall not be imposed unless the court finds by clear and convincing evidence that other reasonable conditions of release are not adequate to provide reasonable protection of the public and reasonable assurance of the person's future appearance in court.
